

Lighten the Burden of Employment Letters

For consumers, some of the important moments in their life — like buying a home or renting an apartment — usually come with the need to prove employment status with a letter of employment.

This need puts pressure on employers to generate letters timely and deal with the confirmation process that may follow. That's time employers could be spending on their most important asset: people.

There's an easier way. Employment Letters by Equifax enables employees to receive letters instantly when they need them the most and gives time back to employers.

Letters on Demand

Equifax offers a suite of professional letters designed for a wide range of organizations. We'll work with you to provide letters 24/7/365 with support from live agents six days a week.

How We Work

- Choose from a suite of templates designed to contain all the information you wish to include.
- Add a digital signature and company logo along with Equifax contact information.
- Include a disclaimer where desired.
- Specific requirements can also be accommodated through our support center.
- Bilingual support is available with extended hours six days a week.

Commonly Requested Letters

Learn more about how Employment Letters by Equifax can benefit your business at verificationexchange.ca or call 1-866-736-7162 for more information

Key Benefits

Save Time:

Employers save time and reduce expenses, freeing them to focus on their employees and growing the business.

Reduce Workload:

Equifax handles the issuing and confirming of letters and is the point of contact for verifiers.

Help Employees:

All employees (current and former) gain access to letters they can download or print 24/7/365.

