We Get It

The nonprofit sector is the third largest employer group in the US, with nearly 12 million employees. Working to decrease turnover should be an important goal for nonprofit HR departments. Separations have the potential to result in unemployment claims, which in turn, have an immediate and real financial impact. Most nonprofit organizations work with unemployment reimbursement accounts, requiring a quarterly payback of the benefits paid out by the state, which can be hard to plan for.

We Got It

Our industry-leading services and proprietary CaseBuilder™ case management platform can be quickly implemented and tailored to meet the needs of any reimbursing employer. We help 501(c)3 organizations, school districts, public entities, hospitals and Indian tribes:

- Manage Costs: protecting and often reducing the “pay as you go” liability for self-funding unemployment claims, which average thousands of dollars.
- Improve Results: helping to anticipate and prepare claim responses to improve initial win rates and reduce the impact on reimbursement accounts
- Implement Efficiencies: using secure, prompted processes and managing delegation procedures to complete tasks quickly
- Increase Compliance: through dashboard views and alerts designed to align processes and timelines to meet state-specific UI Integrity regulations
- Access Expertise: ongoing case consulting and hearing preparation/representation by request
