

Beverly Anderson

President, Global Consumer Solutions

Beverly Anderson is President of Global Consumer Solutions at Equifax. Anderson is responsible for the strategy, development, growth and profitability of direct and indirect businesses serving consumers with credit, identity and financial education products and services.

Prior to Equifax, Anderson drove consumer and small business strategies, product strategies, and enterprise growth and profitability strategies for First USA (JPM Chase), Fleet (Bank of America) and American Express. She was the Executive Vice President of Cards and Retail Services at Wells Fargo, where she led consumer credit cards, co-brand cards, loyalty solutions, retail finance, digital payments and enablement capabilities. She has also held leadership roles managing auto loans, personal lines and loans, servicing, loan operations, collections and fraud operations.

Anderson serves on the Board of Directors of Expedia Group and is a member of the Compensation Committee. She also currently serves on the Board of the Harvard Business School African-American Alumni Association, where she is a past co-president. She received the Kenneth A. Powell Award for Professional Achievement from the Harvard Business School African-American Student Union in 2019. Anderson is a former chair of the Card Policy Council of the American Banker Association, and a former Board Chair of the Council of Urban Professionals. Black Enterprise magazine named her one of its Most Powerful Women in Corporate America in 2019.

Anderson graduated summa cum laude with a Bachelor of Science degree in business from Florida A&M University and received her MBA with distinction from Harvard Business School.
