

Cecilia Mao

EVP and Chief Product Officer

Cecilia Mao serves as Chief Product Officer at Equifax, with a mission of driving new product innovation as the center of the company's business strategy.

Prior to joining Equifax, Mao was Vice President of Product at Oracle Data Cloud from December 2016 to May 2020, where she led teams in business strategy, product management and delivery for identity, data management platform and digital data products. Prior to, she held product management roles on decision and analytics products for over a decade at FICO and Verisk Analytics. She has deep experience in accelerating revenue through new products and solutions, driving large-scale organizational change, and anticipating market dynamics to create new products and segments.

Mao serves on the board of directors of Cboe Global Markets, the world's leading derivatives and securities exchange network.

Mao holds a bachelor's degree in Physics from the University of California, Berkeley.