How we’re transforming commercial lending with the Financial Statement Report™

We help you harness the collective power of commercial lending data so commercial lenders can make better decisions.

Typically, you lose hours manually aggregating, spreading, and analyzing borrowers’ financial statement data. This manual work can result in delays—creating a suboptimal customer experience—and inefficiencies that negatively impact your bottom line.

With the Financial Statement Report™ (FSR), a single click saves you hours of time, pulling the data you need from a wide variety of accounting platforms and giving you a complete picture of risk before making a decision.

FSR covers more than 80% of all accounting platforms, ensuring the quality of data you are receiving is sound and accurate. Having confidence in the data means confidence in your analysis and decision-making.

You have numerous API options from which to choose, allowing you to access customer information in a consistent output format—easy for you to use and make decisions.

Not just a time saver, but a business saver. The hours of time you save by using FSR’s collection, spreading, and analysis capabilities mean easier, faster, more confident credit decisioning.

What does this mean for you? You can spend your time where it matters most—with the relationships that matter most. Borrowers now see you as their go-to for fair, timely lending decisions, which gives you the competitive advantage to grow your business.

We’re on a mission to make the lending process faster, easier, more accurate, and more profitable.
