Drive customer growth

Best practices for financial services firms to acquire the right customers and grow share
Finding these valuable consumers — and differentiating which of your current customers hold the most opportunity for growth — is the lifeline of your business.

However, today’s consumers are less loyal than ever before. Plus, they have an abundance of options available to them to assist with their financial needs.

That’s why financial marketers need to leverage additional data insights to attract new customers, deepen the relationship, and deliver a positive customer experience.

At Equifax, we understand financial marketers need actionable solutions to:

- Deliver your investment, banking, and lending offers to the right new and current customers
- Identify hidden opportunity to grow share for both assets and credit
- Expand product adoption and use across your customer base
- Prioritize best customers and support a positive experience with your firm

With so many financial products and services available today, it can be difficult to attract the attention of any consumer — especially those that will offer value today and in the future.

Whether you are seeking to grow your wealth management or deposit business, we can help you boost your prospect targeting efforts with a more complete view of consumers’ asset potential. Our unique asset insights* — based on measured financial data — can help you identify, reach, and develop new profitable relationships with the right consumers.

Bank identified over $5.6 billion in potential new assets for its prospecting campaign by segmenting households by estimated deposit opportunity instead of using survey-based segmentation.

Fuel ONLINE asset-gathering campaigns: Use asset-based digital targeting segments

Reach online audiences such as:

- 9.6% of households likely to have assets $250K-$500K
- 12.2% of households likely to have deposits $50K-$100K
- 9.1% of households likely to be CD investors
- 10.3% of households likely to be Mass Affluent Millennials with assets between 100K-$1M
Expand and refine your lending audiences

Traditional credit scores are just one piece of a consumer’s financial picture. Plus, over 77 million consumers have thin files or are unscored. However, many consumers have other financial characteristics that can be used to broaden a lender’s view to uncover additional creditworthy applicants for acquisition campaigns.

Ready to reach new potential borrowers and refine your lending target audience? Check out these capabilities to boost your Prescreen efforts:

- Deepen your view of consumer finances to grow your target audience:
  - Differentiate consumers before Prescreen with insight on likely credit needs and financial durability
  - Gain insight on everyday behaviors with alternative data such as telecom, PayTV, and utility payment history or employment and income data

- Use updated scores:
  - Explore optimized credit risk scores for credit cards, personal loans, or insurance
  - Update your model design and weighting with the most recent consumer credit attributes

- Find likely borrowers:
  - Target in-market credit seekers with triggers, propensity models, and propensity scores
  - Promote refinance services by delivering new payment amounts as part of your offer

- Expand campaign reach:
  - Deliver ITA and Prescreen messages with mobile, social, display, and email
  - Fuel online targeting with credit-based digital targeting segments

Uncover hidden opportunity to grow wallet share

Many consumers have several financial relationships, allowing for significant assets or credit balances to be held at other companies.

How can financial managers and lenders discover which of their current consumers hold the most opportunity for asset capture or growth, as well as low-risk credit balance transfers?

Find hidden assets and grow share of wallet: Use asset-based measures to better segment current customers that hold high balances at other firms and thus offer the most potential for asset growth and LTV.

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>$100,000 at your firm</td>
<td>$900,000 held at other firms*</td>
<td>Target for asset transfer</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Find credit opportunities: Identify customer segments to grow lending balances without changing risk.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Start with... A segment of your current borrowers</th>
<th>Identify audience to capture incremental credit</th>
<th>Your opportunity</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Apply a financial durability measure before Prescreen and then use credit scores to refine a cross-sell audience</td>
<td>Promote balance transfer or debt consolidation offers, without impacting risk</td>
<td></td>
</tr>

Discover hidden opportunity: A credit union analyzed its customers’ likely total deposits to discover $14 billion in assets held at other firms and expected to generate $70 million in new deposits from targeted savings campaign.

Grow asset and credit share: If a financial marketer captures just 1% of held-away assets or credit balances from current customers, that could translate into millions of dollars.
Maximize the customer experience

Delivering an optimal experience is key to deepening the relationship with your best customers. In fact, over 80% of customers agree the experience a company provides is as important as its products and services.*

Maximize the customer experience

Bank generated $700 million in new revenue by identifying and reassigning high asset customers to a premium service channel instead of relying on internal data.

Bank achieved almost $50 million in incremental AUM from new customers by identifying high asset potential customers from day one.
You probably have a segment of customers that only use one of your products.

In order to promote additional products and expand relationships, financial marketers can leverage data that sheds insight on customers’ likely investment, deposit, and credit balances and preferences.

Consider these strategies to boost your cross-sell:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Deliver the right next-best investment and deposit product offers:</th>
<th>Identify hidden opportunity for lending cross-sell:</th>
<th>Mix up your audience targeting:</th>
<th>Empower point-of-sale representatives to make the right offer:</th>
</tr>

| Explore portfolio allocation for investment and deposit products at your firm and other firms to gauge product preferences and investment behaviors | Use financial durability measures before Prescreen to identify customers that might be a good fit for balance transfer offers | Use consumer financial insights to gain a broader picture of financial needs.
  - Promote deposit products to brokerage-customer base (and vice versa)
  - Promote credit services to deposit-only customers (and vice versa) | Deliver pre-approved credit offers to deposit customers at the point of sale — in person and via call centers. |
Optimize cross-sell to deepen the relationship

Win with cross-sell:
A credit union with a flourishing auto lending portfolio used Equifax Prescreen criteria to attract $225,000 in unsecured loan balances from its member-base with no delinquencies or charge offs.

Cross-sell success:
One financial institution used consumer financial insights to segment customers for a growth campaign and achieved an over 100% lift in deposit, investment, and loan balances.
6 Act fast to seize in-market customers seeking credit

Let’s say an existing customer is browsing the market for a new bank card or auto loan. Wouldn’t this be nice to know?

It’s possible! Lenders can receive alerts when current customers are actively seeking new credit — so you can respond quickly with your own offer and protect market share.

Sample alerts to help lenders respond fast

Drive product activation

Your customers may have recently acquired or already hold your products — but do they use them?

Sometimes, consumers have insufficient knowledge about how financial products work and all of the features that are included. Other times, consumers may hold a financial product as a ‘just in case’ — such as an infrequently used credit card or a HELOC without a specific need.

To combat these challenges, financial marketers can explore a number of options to help customers increase product usage:

- Provide frequent outreach to young customers with growing affluence
  Younger customers may have a limited understanding of product features and benefits. Focus your efforts on younger customers likely to have significant growth in assets in the next three years and send them regular communications to advance product education.

- Target the right customers to encourage card usage
  Use consumer financial insights such as likely assets, spending power, or estimated household income to better identify current affluent cardholders. This is the audience that can likely charge more and take advantage of your offers.

- Confidently increase lines of credit
  When is the last time you proactively identified current borrowers for a credit line increase? Use financial durability measures as part of your account review to better identify affluent segments that might be a good fit for a credit increase offer — and allow them to borrow more, without impacting risk.
Young affluent consumers have 20x higher assets, 2.4x higher income, and 3x higher spending power as young non-affluent consumers. Prioritize and educate this valuable audience to incent product usage and build long-term relationships.*
