K. M. Nanaiah Managing Director, Equifax Credit Information Services Pvt. Ltd. And Country Leader – India & MEA, Equifax

Looking back on 2022, we can say that it was a year of hope and growth as the economy made significant strides towards recovery from the pandemic-related disruption. Retail lending rebounded strongly, even surpassing pre-Covid levels.

As we move further into 2023, it's worth reflecting on the trends that shaped retail lending in the pre and post-Covid years. It's important to understand which segments were most impacted by the pandemic and which ones emerged stronger from the crisis.

We are thrilled to have partnered with Andromeda to provide you with the latest insights on retail lending in Indian financial services. Our report covers a broad range of topics, including disbursements, delinquencies, top growing geographies, and loan categories.

The insights presented in our report will prove to be immensely beneficial for lenders as they aim to uphold high underwriting standards, manage risks prudently, and increase operational efficiencies. Furthermore, the report will enable lenders to navigate the new high growth environment effectively by leveraging the knowledge gained from the pandemic.

At Equifax, we are committed to helping people live their financial best by empowering individuals and businesses alike with the tools they need to succeed. We believe that this report will provide the financial industry with the information necessary to navigate the post-Covid environment and emerge stronger than ever before.

Finally, I would like to extend my congratulations to the Equifax and Andromeda teams for their efforts in launching this report. It is a testament to their commitment to excellence, and I am confident that it will undoubtedly be an essential resource for the financial industry.

Foreword

Mr. V Swaminathan
Executive Chairman – Andromeda
Sales and Distributions Pvt.Ltd.

Dear Reader,

Welcome to the second edition of Andromeda's retail Newsletter prepared in conjunction with our partner Equifax.

This edition of the report gives an overview of how the retail lending sector has performed over the last few years. The pandemic induced a crisis that forced low interest rates which meant that lenders were flush with liquidity. With the pandemic abating, Central Banks across the world, including India, have taken measures to counter inflation and reduce liquidity. So, on the one hand, we have a situation where there is a lot of pent up post pandemic demand and on the other, we have high interest rates dampening the demand for loans. It is in such interesting times that this report is published. The report analyses the retail lending trends through the last few years across several parameters like geography, product and lender type. It also goes on to perform a more thorough analysis of the Housing Loan market in India. We analyse this loan product type in some detail across multiple parameters.

While the lending industry goes through a phase of consolidation, innovation and digitisation continue at a fast pace. Indeed, it is the active use of technology that has enabled Andromeda to clock a growth rate of 85% in loan originations in the last FY. We continue to remain optimistic of continuing this growth trajectory and consolidating our position as India's largest loan distributor. This report also captures some of Andromeda's practical insights into loan distribution in India along-side the broader macro trends.

We hope you enjoy reading this report and find it informative.
